

Rethinking Talent Management

Connecting strategy, performance and potential for tomorrow's challenges

THURSDAY 14 JULY 2016 • 11.30 – 12.15 (BST) • WEBINAR

For most CEOs, talent remains at or near the top of their priority list, and yet lack of talent remains a major obstacle in achieving organisational goals. While a lot of effort is spent tackling these challenges, our recent CRF survey indicated a lack of satisfaction with the outcomes of talent management practices.

Our forthcoming CRF webinar will examine how talent management can be better aligned with the needs of the organisation. During the 45 minute programme the panel will assess the key challenges in talent management today and the steps HR professionals can take to reinvent talent management for the 21st Century. The discussion will focus on the following questions:

- How does the way organisations manage talent need to adapt to stay relevant in today's –and tomorrow's – business context?
- Why are talent management satisfaction levels low and what can be done to improve outcomes?
- How can talent functions make sure what they do is closely aligned with business strategy and needs?

ABOUT CRF

Corporate Research Forum (CRF) is a growing network of 170+ global organisations looking to develop their people strategy and organisational effectiveness. Our purpose is to provide CRF members with cost-effective access to leading research, thinkers, practitioners and, crucially, like-minded organisations which focus on developing environments where their people can flourish.

CRF WEBINARS

CRF webinars aim to continue the debate generated from our research reports and member meetings, thereby enabling global teams to access high quality content in an online environment built for exchange and discussion. They are engaging, interactive, content rich and, importantly, to the point, recognising the time constraints everyone operates under.
